INTRODUCTION: THE POLITICIZATION OF SCIENCE

Science is presented as a neutral and objective pursuit of truth. But in reality, the modern scientific system operates as a complex mechanism controlled by power, money, and ideology. Evolution theory is the most striking example of this system: presented as a scientific theory, but actually a dogma protected and imposed by political, ideological, and economic interests. In this article, we will expose how evolution theory became a tool of the capitalist system, how scientific dissent is systematically suppressed, and how this dark structure operates.

CHAPTER 1: SYSTEMATIC CENSORSHIP - THE BLOCKING OF REAL SCIENCE

The Workings of the Academic Mafia

The gates that must be passed for scientific research to be published are guarded by watchdogs loyal to evolution theory. The peer-review system theoretically exists for quality control, but in practice functions as an ideological filter. Studies that criticize, question, or offer alternative explanations to evolution theory are systematically rejected. The stated reason for rejection is "not scientific," but the real reason is ideological incompatibility.

Access to articles itself has been deliberately made difficult. Serious scientific studies written against evolution theory cannot be easily found on Google Scholar or in academic databases. Why? Because the owners of these platforms are part of the capitalist system and apply ideological filtering. To find an article, you sometimes need special codes, PDF background searches, as if you're searching for a hidden treasure. This is not coincidence; it's a deliberate strategy. If information doesn't flow freely, people cannot access alternative ideas. If they cannot access them, they don't question. If they don't question, the system remains standing.

Publication Monopoly and Ideological Control

The vast majority of scientific journals are controlled by a few giant publishers (Elsevier, Springer, Wiley). These companies are profit-oriented capitalist institutions and serve market interests rather than scientific "truth." An article questioning evolution theory loses its chance of publication in these journals from the start. Editors and reviewers are selected from people loyal to the system. This is virtually an ideological oligarchy: there is freedom to do science, but only within certain boundaries. Those who cross the boundaries are punished.

In this system, the concept of "scientific consensus" is used as a weapon. Statistics like "97% of scientists believe in evolution" are pumped out. But it's never asked: what happened to the remaining 3%? Why weren't their articles published? Why weren't they invited to conferences? Why were they expelled from universities? Because the system crushes dissent. The monopolistic nature of capitalism manifests itself in science as well: there is only one "truth," and it's the truth determined by the system.

CHAPTER 2: THE DOUBLE STANDARD OF SCIENTIFIC METHOD

The Hypocrisy of the "Falsifiability" Principle

According to Karl Popper's philosophy of science, for a theory to be scientific, it must be "falsifiable." That is, evidence against the theory must be discoverable, and if evidence contradicts the theory, the theory should be rejected. This is a logical principle. But when it comes to evolution theory, this principle doesn't work. Why? Because evolution theory is formulated so flexibly, so vaguely, that it can interpret any finding in its favor.

Transitional forms not found in the fossil record? "The fossil record is incomplete." Species appearing suddenly in the Cambrian explosion? "Rapid evolution occurred." Some species unchanged for millions of years? "It's stasis, arrested evolution." An explanation is produced for every scenario. This is not a scientific theory but a flexible mythological narrative. If no finding can falsify evolution, evolution is an unfalsifiable dogma, not a scientific theory.

Is Everything That Hasn't Been Disproven True?

Scientific method says: A hypothesis is suspect until supported by evidence. The "burden of proof" belongs to the one making the claim. But when evolution theory is concerned, this rule is reversed: "Evolution is true, prove otherwise." This contradicts scientific method. Moreover, those who try to prove otherwise are systematically blocked. Research funds are cut, publications rejected, careers destroyed. Then how will they prove it? The system suffocates dissent to protect its own legitimacy.

For example, scientists supporting Intelligent Design theory faced academic lynch campaigns. Richard Sternberg was mobbed and removed from his position at the Smithsonian Institution for publishing an ID-supporting article. Guillermo Gonzalez had his tenure application rejected at Iowa State University for writing a book defending ID. There are hundreds of such examples. The system rewards not scientific freedom but ideological loyalty.

CHAPTER 3: THE DARK HISTORY OF EVOLUTION THEORY - LIES AND FRAUDS

Piltdown Man: The Greatest Scientific Scandal

In 1912, in England, an amateur archaeologist named Charles Dawson claimed to have found the "missing link." A fossil combining a human skull with an ape jaw. This "find" was shown in science textbooks as "proof of evolution" for 40 years. It was displayed in museums, and professors taught it in lectures. But in 1953, chemical tests were conducted and the truth emerged: this was a fraud. A human skull and orangutan jaw were glued together, aged with chemicals, deliberately fabricated as a fake fossil.

This was not an isolated incident. This was proof of how the system operates. Didn't anyone suspect for 40 years? Didn't anyone test it? No. Because the finding fits the theory. They saw what they wanted to see, so they didn't question. This is a psychological trap called "confirmation bias," but it's unacceptable for scientists to fall into it. The Piltdown scandal showed that the ideological atmosphere around evolution theory kills critical thinking.

Nebraska Man: A Human Family From a Single Tooth

In 1922, a tooth was found in Nebraska. Evolutionists immediately announced: "Here's the first human ancestor in North America!" Based on this tooth, scientists drew pictures of an entire human family. Woman, man, child, even lifestyles were designed. From just one tooth. Five years later, the complete skeleton was found and the truth emerged: this was a pig tooth. Yes, pig. Evolutionists created a human family from a pig tooth.

This incident is as tragic as it is comical. Because it shows that evolutionists are under such intense pressure to find a "missing link" that they forget to be scientifically cautious. Every finding is hastily pumped out as "proof of evolution." When the error emerges, it's quietly forgotten. The Nebraska Man scandal is proof of how unreliable the system is.

Haeckel's Embryo Drawings: Deliberate Fraud

Ernst Haeckel in the 19th century made fake embryo drawings, saying "embryos resemble each other, this is proof of evolution." He manipulated embryos of different species to make them look similar. This fraud was exposed in 1874. Haeckel was accused of fraud and admitted it. But still, these drawings were used in biology textbooks throughout the 20th century. Why? Because the system preferred to continue the lie.

Today: Advanced Technology, Advanced Manipulation

In the past, fraud was done with crude methods: gluing bones together, manipulating drawings. But today technology is much more sophisticated. Computer simulations, genetic data manipulations, statistical tricks. Findings are packaged to look "scientific." Who will check? Reviewers. But reviewers are also part of the system. The cycle is closed.

Additionally, great liberties are taken when making fossil "restorations." A skull fragment is found, the rest is completed with "scientific estimation." But these estimates are based on evolutionary assumptions. Result: every new "human ancestor" fossil is shaped to fit the theory. This is not science, it's art direction.

CHAPTER 4: ACADEMIC TERRORISM - HOW DISSENT IS CRUSHED

The Destruction of Careers

What happens to scientists who question evolution theory can be described as academic terror. Here are a few examples:

Richard Sternberg: He was an editor at the Smithsonian Institution. He published an article supporting Intelligent Design. Result: Mobbing, removal from position, character assassination.

The U.S. government even conducted an investigation and acknowledged that Sternberg's rights were violated.

Guillermo Gonzalez: Astronomer at Iowa State University. He wrote a book defending ID based on the fine-tuning of the universe. Result: Tenure application rejected. Over 500 publications, excellent teaching evaluations, NASA funding, none of it was enough. Because he was ideologically inappropriate.

Caroline Crocker: Biology professor. She discussed weaknesses of evolution theory in her class. Result: Fired. Tried to find work at other universities. None accepted. She was told she was "blacklisted."

These are just three examples. There are hundreds more. The system's message is clear: "Shut up or your career ends."

Cutting of Funds

Scientific research is expensive. Laboratory equipment, personnel salaries, test materials, all require money. Where does this money come from? Government agencies (like NSF, NIH), private foundations, university budgets. But these institutions ideologically support evolution theory. A scientist wanting to do research against evolution cannot find funding. If they can't find funding, they can't do research. If they can't do research, they can't produce results. If they can't produce results, they can't publish. If they can't publish, their career ends.

This is economic censorship. They don't ban directly, but make it economically impossible. This is capitalism's classic tactic: economically suffocating dissent.

Closure of Academic Conferences

Dissident scientists try to organize conferences to share their ideas. But these conferences are systematically blocked. Protests are organized, universities apply pressure, venues are cancelled. For example, in 2016, an ID conference planned at the Royal Society was almost cancelled due to pressure from the evolutionist lobby. The conference could only proceed after international reactions but was featured in the media as a scandal.

This is the true face of the system presented as "scientific freedom": only approved ideas can be expressed. Dissent is branded as "anti-science" and silenced.

CHAPTER 5: GROWING DISSENT - THE SYSTEM IS CRACKING

The Silent Rebellion of Academics

There's a notable trend in recent years: more and more professors and associate professors are opposing evolution theory after retirement. Why after retirement? Because their careers are no longer under threat. If they had defended these ideas while actively working, they would have lost their jobs. But now they're free and can speak the truth.

This is a confession of how oppressive the system is. Scientists cannot fearlessly speak scientific truths. Because the system rewards loyalty to dogma, not truth. These academics now say: "Yes, we taught evolution theory throughout our careers. But we knew there were very serious problems. We just couldn't say so."

"A Scientific Dissent from Darwinism" List

This list organized by the Discovery Institute includes PhD-holding scientists who scientifically oppose evolution theory. When it started in 2001, it had 100 signatures. Now it has over 1,000. These are biologists, chemists, physicists, mathematicians, people evolutionists try to dismiss as "junk science." But these people are graduates of the world's most prestigious universities, serious scientists with publications in peer-reviewed journals.

The list says:

"We are skeptical of claims for the ability of random mutation and natural selection to account for the complexity of life."

This is a scientific statement. Not atheism, not theism, just scientific skepticism. But the system doesn't even tolerate this.

The Conversion of Former Atheists

One of the most striking examples is Antony Flew. For 50 years, he was the world's most famous atheist philosopher. He wrote dozens of books defending atheism. But in 2004, at age 81, he converted to theism. Why? He studied the information complexity of DNA and became a theist.

Flew's conversion had an earthquake effect within the evolutionist camp. Because Flew was the symbol of the "science defeated religion" narrative. Now this symbol was pointing to Design, contrary to science.

Other examples: Lee Strobel (atheist journalist, became Christian), Francis Collins (Human Genome Project director, theist), John Lennox (Oxford mathematician, Christian). These people aren't ignorant or reactionary, on the contrary, they're scientists at the top of their fields.

CHAPTER 6: EVOLUTION AS THE IDEOLOGICAL NEED OF THE CAPITALIST SYSTEM

Why Is Evolution So Protected?

Behind the fanatic defense of evolution theory are not scientific but ideological reasons. The capitalist system requires a materialist worldview. Why? Because materialism says: "Only matter exists. No soul, no afterlife, no God, no accountability." This worldview legitimizes capitalist immorality.

If Allah exists and there's an afterlife, then exploitation, injustice, and oppression are things to be held accountable for. But if Allah doesn't exist, then "struggle for survival" is normal. The strong crush the weak, natural selection says so. The rich exploit the poor, that's how the market economy works. Evolution theory normalizes capitalist savagery through social Darwinism.

The Scientific Cover of Atheism

Evolution theory makes atheism appear scientific. Richard Dawkins says explicitly:

"Darwin made it possible to be an intellectually fulfilled atheist."

In other words, without evolution theory, atheism is difficult. Because the order, design, and complexity in the universe, all point to a Creator. But evolution theory says "no, chance and time can explain everything." This is the saving narrative atheism needs.

The capitalist system encourages atheism. Because religious societies are more cautious about consumption, set moral boundaries, and reject materialist values. But atheist societies, conversely, celebrate consumption, prioritize instant pleasures, and say "live for today." This is ideal for the capitalist economy.

The Ideological Function of the Education System

Evolution theory is taught as dogma in the compulsory education system worldwide. Children are taught from age 10 (7 for me) that "you descended from apes." Alternative explanations (creation, ID) are either not mentioned at all or dismissed as "unscientific, reactionary." This is the ideological shaping of children's minds.

Noam Chomsky describes the education system as a "factory of obedience." The imposition of evolution theory is part of this factory. What's taught to children isn't just biology, but a worldview: a materialist, secular, Godless worldview.

CHAPTER 7: TECHNOLOGICAL MANIPULATION TODAY

Increasing Control in the Digital Age

In the past, fraud was done with crude methods: gluing bones, altering drawings, painting fossils with chemicals. These were physical manipulations and carried the risk of eventual exposure. But in today's world, manipulation has become much more sophisticated, much more undetectable. Digital technologies offer intervention possibilities at every stage of scientific data.

Computer Simulations: Most modern evolutionist research is based on computer models. Evolutionary processes are "simulated" and results are presented as "evolution works." But who determines the parameters of these simulations? What are the software's assumptions? What evolutionist presuppositions are embedded in the code? These questions are rarely asked. Because the result is automatically accepted as legitimate since "the computer said so." But garbage in, garbage out: if you put in wrong assumptions, you get wrong results.

Genetic Data Manipulation: DNA sequencing technology produces massive data. But the interpretation, analysis, and alignment (sequence alignment) of this data relies on subjective decisions. Which genes are you comparing? Which regions are you dismissing as "unimportant"? Which statistical method are you using? These decisions can dramatically change the result. And who makes these decisions? Scientists with evolutionist assumptions. The result is predictable: the data "supports" evolution.

3D Reconstructions: Fossil finds are usually fragmentary. A skull fragment, a jaw bone, a few teeth. The rest is completed with "scientific reconstruction." That is, a 3D model is created on a computer, missing parts are filled in "by estimation." But what are these estimates based on? Evolutionist expectations. Result: every new "human ancestor" fossil fits the theory perfectly. Because it's restored to fit the theory.

Statistical Tricks: They say "lies, damn lies, and statistics." Statistics is a powerful tool when used correctly but deception when misused. P-hacking (trying different tests until you find the result you want), cherry-picking (selecting data that suits you), confirmation bias (emphasizing findings that confirm your desired hypothesis), these are widespread problems in science. And in evolution research, these problems are endemic. Why? Because the result is predetermined: evolution is true. Now just find "evidence." This isn't science, it's lawyering.

The Propaganda Role of Media

If scientific publications remain in academic journals, they don't reach the masses. But when media pumps scientific findings as "news," the impact is enormous. And the media is part of the capitalist system. Media moguls, publishing principles, advertising revenues all favor the system's continuation.

Sensational Headlines: "Scientists discover new fossil of human ancestors!" "Evolution theory confirmed once again!" Such headlines are repeated every few months. But if you look at the details: the find is a tooth, a bone fragment, something uncertain. Interpretations are speculative. But the public sees the headline, says "evolution proven," and moves on.

Ignoring Criticisms: If there are scientific publications criticizing evolution theory, they don't find space in the media. "No news value" is said. Or if they do find space, they're caricatured: "Anti-science fundamentalists attack again" style. Thus, the public is one-sidedly informed.

Misuse of Technology: Future Concern

Think about what can be done with today's technology. Deepfake videos, indistinguishable from real or fake. AI-generated texts, indistinguishable from human writing. Genetic datasets, manipulated however you want. Now imagine: 10 years, 20 years from now these technologies will develop further. Then what can evolutionists do?

They can produce completely synthetic fossils. Bones are printed with 3D printers, aged with chemicals, "find location" is fabricated. Then a "big discovery" is announced. Who will question? They do carbon-14 testing, say "yes, million years old." But carbon-14 testing measures the sample's age, but doesn't measure whether that sample is real or synthetic.

Or they completely fabricate genetic data and publish it in an article. Who will check? Those requesting raw data are refused on "data privacy" grounds. Or data is shared but it's so large and complex that independent verification is impossible.

This isn't a dystopian fantasy, these are things already possible with current technology. And the more oppressive, the more monolithic the system becomes, the more likely such tricks become. Because there's no oversight, no questioning, dissent is silenced.

CHAPTER 8: HISTORY REPEATING - RELIGION CHANGED, DOGMA THE SAME

Medieval Church vs. Modern Evolutionist Establishment

They say history repeats itself. In medieval Europe, the Catholic Church had absolute authority. Not just in religious matters, but in science, philosophy, education, politics - in every field. To oppose the Church's teaching meant being excommunicated, imprisoned, even burned.

The Church didn't accept certain scientific truths because they conflicted with Biblical interpretations. For example, the idea that Earth revolves around the Sun (heliocentrism) was declared "heretical" by the Pope. Galileo Galilei presented his telescope observations but the Church didn't listen. Galileo was sentenced to house arrest, his books were banned, he was asked to apologize until death.

What's the situation today?

The evolutionist establishment is the new Church. Darwinism is the new dogma. To oppose evolution means being declared "anti-science," excommunicated from academia, buried in a career grave. The methods are the same: authority, oppression, censorship. Only the language has changed. Before they said "you're going against God's commands," now they say "you're going against scientific consensus." But the logic is the same: questioning is forbidden, obey.

How Does Scientific Revolution Happen?

Thomas Kuhn, in his book "The Structure of Scientific Revolutions," explains how science progresses. According to Kuhn, science doesn't progress linearly but through revolutionary leaps. A paradigm (worldview) is dominant, everyone accepts that paradigm, research is done within that paradigm. But over time, anomalies (unexplainable findings) accumulate. The paradigm becomes unable to explain these anomalies. Finally a paradigm shift occurs: the old worldview collapses, a new one comes.

Evolution theory is currently the dominant paradigm. But anomalies are piling up: Cambrian explosion, missing transitional forms, genetic entropy, fine-tuning, DNA's information complexity, irreducible complexity... The system tries to ignore these anomalies, but leaks are occurring. Dissident voices are increasing. The system responds with pressure but pressure cannot be sustained forever.

History shows that paradigm shifts happen suddenly and dramatically. Ptolemy's "Earth-centered universe" model dominated for 1400 years. Then Copernicus, Galileo, Kepler came and within 100 years the model collapsed. Now no one defends Ptolemy. Similarly, Darwinism will also collapse one day. Maybe in 50 years, maybe in 100 years. But it will collapse. Because it's incompatible with reality.

From Future Generations' Eyes

Imagine: the year 2124. A high school student is researching for history class. Topic: "The Ideological Exploitation of Science in the 21st Century." The student sifts through archives and reads with astonishment:

"In the early 21st century, Western societies blindly believed in evolution theory. Fossil evidence was lacking, genetic mechanisms unexplainable, mathematical probabilities impossible, yet it was still imposed as dogma. Scientists who criticized were fired, their publications censored. People really believed 'we descended from apes.' How was this possible?"

The teacher answers: "That period was the peak of capitalist system's ideological hegemony. Science had become a system maintenance tool, not a pursuit of truth. But eventually truth emerged. In the 2050s, the great paradigm shift occurred. Now everyone knows: the universe is designed, life is created. But people of that period blindly believed in dogma."

This scenario isn't fantasy but probable future. Because truth eventually emerges. A lie, no matter how protected, cannot be hidden forever.

CHAPTER 9: SOLUTION PATHS - THE RECONSTRUCTION OF SCIENCE IN THE CALIPHATE SYSTEM

The tructural change will be possible in an Islamic system, in the caliphate. By its very nature, the capitalist system has commercialized, monopolized and subjected science to ideological control. This structure cannot be reformed because it exists in capitalism's essence. True scientific freedom can only be achieved in an Islamic order.

1. Fundamental Principles of Science in the Caliphate:

In the history of Islamic civilization, science developed in a free and pluralistic environment. During the Abbasid Period, Bayt al-Hikma (House of Wisdom) was a center where scholars from all over the world, people from different religions and thoughts came together. Muslim, Christian, Jewish scientists worked together. Because Islam encourages the pursuit of truth, not dogma.

2. Science Policies in the Caliphate:

A. Ban on Monopoly in Science: In the capitalist system, a few publishers control all scientific literature. This is unacceptable in the caliphate system. Scientific knowledge is humanity's common property, not sold, not monopolized. The state supports but doesn't control scientific publications. Open access is encouraged.

B. Justice in Research Funding: In the capitalist system, funds are distributed according to ideological loyalty. In the caliphate system, funds are distributed according to scientific value and social benefit. Research questioning evolution theory is evaluated equally with research supporting it. Decisions are made by scientific juries, but there's no ideological pressure.

C. Academic Employment Security: In the caliphate system, scientists cannot be punished for their views. Islamic law protects freedom of thought. Umar's famous saying: "When did you enslave people, when their mothers gave birth to them free?" This principle applies in science too. Scientists are free, and cannot be bound with ideological chains.

D. Revival of Bayt al-Hikma: The caliphate establishes modern Bayt al-Hikmah. These are independent research institutes, state-funded but autonomous. Big questions like the origin of the universe, the beginning of life, human consciousness are researched here. Only condition: honesty and scientific method. Not ideological loyalty, but pursuit of truth is paramount.

3. Why Is the Caliphate Necessary?

The capitalist system is profit-oriented. Science has become a profit tool. Publishers make money from articles. Pharmaceutical companies manipulate research. Universities conform to ideology to attract funds. Real science has died in this structure.

The caliphate system is based on justice, not profit. The state serves the public interest, not corporate interests. Science is not commercial commodity but humanity's common heritage. In this structure, ideological dogmas like evolution theory cannot be protected. Because the system serves truth, not dogma.

4. Historical Examples:

Islamic Golden Age (8th-13th Century):

- Al-Biruni: Calculated Earth's radius
- Ibn Sina: Father of medicine, his work was taught in Europe for 600 years
- Al-Khwarizmi: Founder of algebra
- Ibn al-Haytham: Father of optics, pioneer of scientific method
- Al-Jazari: Pioneer of robotic engineering

These scientists were free. There was no dogmatic authority like the Church. They had research freedom. And Islamic civilization was the world's science center at that time.

When did the problem start? After the 13th century, the Islamic world weakened with political chaos, Mongol invasions and internal conflicts. Scientific progress slowed. But the cause was not Islam but political collapse. When the caliphate was strong, science was strong too.

5. Darwinism Research in the Modern Caliphate:

When the caliphate is established, independent institutions are created. Here:

- All claims of evolution theory are tested
- The fossil record is re-examined

- Genetic data is independently analyzed
- Fine-tuning parameters are calculated
- Mathematical probabilities are calculated

Researchers are free. If evolution is true (it is not), they prove it (they won't). If it's false, they prove that too. Whatever the result, truth is sought.

This is impossible in the capitalist system. Because the result is predetermined: "Evolution is true." But in the caliphate, truth is not predetermined, it's researched.

FINAL CONCLUSION: CALIPHATE AND TRUE SCIENCE

Evolution theory is not scientific but a political dogma. The capitalist system spends enormous resources to protect this dogma. Media, education, academia, publishing, all repeat the same narrative. Dissent is crushed, censored, ignored. But history shows that no oppression lasts forever. Truth eventually emerges.

The Piltdown fraud was hidden for 40 years but was finally exposed. Haeckel's fake embryo drawings were in textbooks for a century but were finally removed. Today too, evolution theory's fake claims will one day be exposed. Because lies cannot stand.

Our duty:

- Seek truth
- Question dogma
- Not bow to pressure
- Struggle to change the system
- Work to re-establish the caliphate system

For research against Darwinism to be possible, the capitalist system must be destroyed, the caliphate must be established. Science must be liberated from capitalist monopoly. Academic freedom must be guaranteed. The publication mafia must be dismantled. Education must be democratized. And all this is only possible in an Islamic order, in the caliphate system.

This won't be easy. The system is resisting because it has vested interests. But resistance is not victory. It's only delaying collapse. History moves toward truth. And the truth is: The universe is designed. Life is created. Allah exists.

This truth is currently under (false) pressure. But the more pressure increases, the more powerful the explosion. The paradigm shift is approaching. Future generations will look at our era and be amazed: "How did they ignore such obvious truth?"

The answer is simple: The capitalist system prevented them from seeing.

But the system is cracking. And we are here to widen those cracks, to establish the caliphate.

Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) said: "Whoever among you sees an evil, let him change it with his hand. If he cannot, then with his tongue. If he cannot, then with his heart, and that is the weakest of faith."

Against the oppression of the capitalist system:

- With our hands: Establish alternative institutions, change the system, build the caliphate
- With our tongues: Spread truth, expose lies, create awareness
- With our hearts: Never surrender, never give up

Allah's promise:

هُوَ ٱلَّذِىٓ أَرۡسَلَ رَسُولَهُۥ بِٱلۡهُدَىٰ وَدِينِ ٱلۡحَقِّ لِيُظۡهِرَهُۥ عَلَى ٱلدِّينِ كُلِّهِۦ وَلَوۡ كَرِهَ ٱلۡمُشۡرِكُونَ

> He is the One Who has sent His Messenger with ˹true˺ guidance and the religion of truth, making it prevail over all others, even to the dismay of the polytheists. (At-Tawbah 33)

The caliphate will come. Truth will prevail. The evolutionary lie will collapse. The truth of creation will be proclaimed.

And on that day, scientists will say:

ٱلَّذِينَ يَذۡكُرُونَ ٱللَّهَ قِيَٰمٗا وَقُعُودٗا وَعَلَىٰ جُنُوبِهِمۡ وَيَتَفَكَّرُونَ فِى خَلۡقِ ٱلسَّمَٰوَٰتِ وَٱلۡأَرۡضِ رَبَّنَا مَا خَلَقۡتَ هَٰذَا بَٰطِلٗا سُبۡحَٰنَكَ فَقِنَا عَذَابَ ٱلنَّارِ

˹They are˺ those who remember Allah while standing, sitting, and lying on their sides, and reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth ˹and pray˺, "Our Lord! You have not created ˹all of˺ this without purpose. Glory be to You! Protect us from the torment of the Fire. (Ali Imran 191)

Alhamdulillahi Rabbil Alamin.

وَقُلۡ جَآءَ ٱلۡحَقُّ وَزَهَقَ ٱلۡبَٰطِلُۚ إِنَّ ٱلۡبَٰطِلَ كَانَ زَهُوقٗا

And declare, "The truth has come and falsehood has vanished. Indeed, falsehood is bound to vanish." (al-Isra 17:81)

يُرِيدُونَ لِيُطۡفِـُٔواْ نُورَ ٱللَّهِ بِأَفۡوَٰهِهِمۡ وَٱللَّهُ مُتِمُّ نُورِهِۦ وَلَوۡ كَرِهَ ٱلۡكَٰفِرُونَ

They wish to extinguish Allah's light with their mouths, but Allah will ˹certainly˺ perfect His light, even to the dismay of the disbelievers. (as-Saf 61:8)

The caliphate is near. Truth will prevail. Inshallah.

Allah knows best.
